Please let us see your expertise and talent.

Building and Finance.

It would be good to form a building group. Also the finance committee would appreciate more help. If you have any expertise in either of the above groups, your help would be appreciated. No more than one hour a month. Please don't pass it by.

The Pope's encyclical on the environment, Laudato si, is available for purchase at the cost of £7.

Fr Jack

As last week with the prodigal Son, so this week with the unjust steward. Both are scoundrels, but then the parables are not about them.

The first one is about The Loving Father and the second one is about a just Landlord.

So often we take the gospels at face value, instead of reading them for what they are:

A Book about Our God.

About our loving father who cares passionately about all his children, loving them and moulding them into what he intended them to be... True reflections of Himself.

We are created in the image of God, truly beautiful creatures reflecting his love.

But from the moment we pop out of the womb we start getting damaged, some worse than others. And God spends a lifetime trying to mould us back into what we are meant to be.

Read the first reading again.

Does it say anything to you in the light of today's care for the environment?

Parenting is a very important profession, but no fitness test for it is ever imposed.
