Pope Francis

In this Gospel reading, are the Pharisees more interested in taxes or in undermining Jesus' influence? Do God's and Caesar's worlds have to be separated? "Can we divorce spiritual obligation from political policies ... or social issues?"

What do you think, comments appreciated.

Pope Francis says Caesar's image is on the coin, but we are all created in the image and likeness of God. To whom do we all ultimately belong? How would a Christian illuminate the world's human and social problems with the Light of the Holy Spirit? Christians are called to commit themselves concretely in the human and social spheres without comparing "God" and "Caesar"; comparing God and Caesar would be a fundamentalist approach. Christians are called to commit themselves concretely in earthly realities, but illuminating them with the light that comes from God. The primary entrustment to God and hope in him do not imply an escape from reality, but rather the diligent rendering to God that which belongs to him. ... to live earthly life to the fullest, and to meet its challenges with courage.

Pope Francis, The Angelus, Oct. 22, 2017

Just a Reminder

The Poor were never very far from the mind of Jesus and should not be far from ours either.

Welcome the stranger
Feed the hungry
Give drink to the thirsty
Shelter the homeless Cloth the naked

*"I ask not only on behalf of these, but also on behalf of those who will believe in me through their word, that they may all be on" John 17:21

Pray: Lord Jesus, before your Passion you made a fervent prayer that we would all be one. Work through me each and every day, to honour my sisters and brothers, to uphold their dignity, and to do all that I can to make this most precious prayer a reality in my community and in our world. Amen
